Field of the Invention The present invention relates generally to a gas permeable contact lens having excellent gas permeability and excellent wettability and, more particularly, to a soft or hard contact lens having excellent gas permeability and excellent wettability and capable of being used as a hard contact lens for correcting myopia and hyperopia, a hard or soft contact lens for correcting astigmatism, and a soft or hard contact lens for improving the contrast of the eye. 2. Description of the Related Art Conventionally, hard contact lenses have been used for correcting myopia, hyperopia, astigmatism and the like. However, in recent years, instead of hard contact lenses, soft or hard contact lenses have come to be used, in order to avoid the possible damage to the cornea caused by wearing a hard contact lens for a long time. With soft or hard contact lenses, the cornea is protected to some extent. However, it is difficult for soft or hard contact lenses to maintain their sufficient oxygen permeability and wettability for a long period of time. For this reason, conventional soft or hard contact lenses have had a problem that they are lost due to elution of the water content on the eye during continuous use. As means of improving the gas permeability of a contact lens, there have been proposed, for example, a gas permeable contact lens formed by forming a water-absorbable poly(hydroxyalkanoic acid) in the internal of the lens (Japanese Patent Application Laid-Open (KOKAI) Nos. 61-162268 and 61-162269) and a contact lens formed by plating a metal such as iridium, ruthenium, tungsten or platinum on a surface of the lens (Japanese Patent Application Laid-Open (KOKAI) Nos. 61-15634, 62-240143 and 1-20
