=====================================

Cat Lady – The Card Game was developed by AEG GAMES, the same games development team behind the award-winning Super Cute Kitty: Cats. AEG GAMES was formed in March 2009, joining the international games industry after acquiring World of Simcity developer SimCity Technologies (formally The People's Cube). Under the AEG banner, a suite of games based on and themed around cats have come to the PC with the release of Cat Lady - The Card Game, Cat Tricks, Neko Atsume and Kitty Galore!. Since then, the studio has become a leading force in the card games category with the release of several games including Frogatto, The Dice Game, Hi Muddy! and Dr. Jelly's Pocky Factory! AEG GAMES is a leading independent games publisher with over a decade of experience. So I decided to have a go at a Neocounteroid release and i've made one of them! Although it doesn't have a story like the others. I also had to work really hard on the naming. I'm going to do some more of these in the future with new takes on their characters. For example

I'm working on a game called Witch Girl and Witch Boy, this time with a witch and a wizard as the protagonists and I'm going to use more popular music in the soundtrack. Here's one of the cards I made before the sale happened. I haven't given the backstory a chance yet though c9d1549cdd

Q: create numbers automaticly with python I have a script for csv file but I want that it rewrites automatically with python. This scripts produces csv files from.txt import csv def test_open_csv_with_code(): # open a CSV file using a list-comprehension open_csv = ['file1.csv', 'file2.csv', 'file3.csv'] # loop and create a list that contains a valid string for each CSV filename out_files = [['input1.txt'], ['input2.txt'], ['input3.txt']] with open(open_csv) as f: # loop over the list elements and open f using list comprehension # the string as an input and an empty output stream '', not the file f # so the last two lines of the script do not execute csv_files = [list(csv.reader(f, dialect='excel-tab')) for f in out_files] # the last line below actually executes the script # so it's the only line not in a list comprehension with open('file{}.csv'.
