For the second consecutive year, the Packers used a sixth-round pick on a defensive back. Third-year safety Ha Ha Clinton-Dix should be expected to play a prominent role in the Packers' secondary. Also, it probably doesn't help that both the Packers' second-round pick (DeAngelo Yancey) and third-round pick (Jarrett Boykin) played at nickel corner in college. But Clinton-Dix probably can be expected to be a full-time starter. This was one of the more underrated drafts of the past few years. The Packers just used the fifth pick of the second round and the 126th pick overall on a wide receiver. That's insane. So how did they do this? Well, it starts with Aaron Rodgers, of course. The Packers traded for Jordy Nelson (who has been great this season) and drafted Randall Cobb (who has had a spectacular rookie season). Dez Bryant and Kelvin Benjamin were released, leaving the Packers' receiving corps thin. So, they just 6d1f23a050
